BALKAN FIGHT AT CRISIS

WILSON 'HAZY' IN HIS PLEDGE FOR SUFFRAGE

Admits Cause Is Bound to Win, but Fails to Advise by What Method.

ADDRESS TO WOMEN.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 8.—(Special.)—I have not come to ask you to be patient, but to congratulate you on the fact that there is a force behind you that will, beyond any peradventure, be triumphant and for which you can afford a little while to wait.

That was the word President Wilson tonight to the six hundred eager delegates to the National American Woman Suffrage association convention which awaited his declaration in the House S. Anthony amendment.

DODGES REAL ISSUE.

Skillfully maneuvering on the outskirts of the issue, the president declared to the delegates that he was not going to discuss the amendment, "about the amendment of the channels and methods by which suffrage is to prevail."

But for what every woman in the vast audience that lined the New York theater to overflowing had come to hear the president had only disappointment. He showed and explained his sympathy with the suffrage cause. He said the women that it "not only had come to stay but had come with conquering power."

In triumph, he declared, was as certain as the rising of the tide to meet the moon. Yet he declined to grow specific and promise the aid that, in the women's belief, would make victory certain.

SUFFRAGE LEADERS SPEAK.

The president and Mrs. Wilson had sat on the left of the stage while four speeches were made.

The speakers were Mrs. Raymond Robins, wife of the Progressive leader of Chicago, whose motion to pledge delegates to support only those candidates for national offices who have endorsed the federal amendment, was almost unanimously moved under earlier in the day, Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the national children's bureau, Washington, Mrs. Katherine B. Davis, parole commissioner of New York, and Dr. Owen Lovejoy.

TEXT OF WILSON ADDRESS.

Following is the text of President Wilson's address:

"Madam President, Ladies of the Association: I have found it a real privilege to be here tonight and to listen to the addresses which you have heard. Though you may not all of you believe it, I would be glad to hear rather than anybody else speak myself, but I should feel that I was omitting a duty if I did not address you tonight and say some of the things that have been in my mind as I realized the approach of this evening and the duty that would fall upon me."

"The astonishing thing about the movement which you represent is not that it has grown so slowly, but that it has grown so rapidly. No doubt for these years have been a long time in the making, like your honored president, it was a long and arduous path that has been trodden, but when you think of the dominating force of this movement in recent decades, you must agree with me that it is one of the most astonishing things in modern history."

"Two generations ago, no doubt, President Wilson would agree with me in saying that it was a handful of women who were fighting for this cause. Now it is a great multitude of women who are fighting for it."

"And there are some interesting historical connections which I would like to suggest to point out to you. One of the striking facts about the history of the United States is that at the outset it was a lawyer's history. Almost all of the questions to which America's education has been a hundred years ago, were legal questions, were questions of law. The questions of what you were going to do with your government, but questions of how you were going to establish your government—how you were going to balance the powers of the state."

Husband Takes Unique Stand in This "Triangle"

Sends Away Wife Involved with Movie Actor; Fond of Her Yet.

HE PAYS HER BILLS

Friends of Frank Dorpolis of 6036 Dorchester avenue told him a month ago that his wife was infatuated with a moving picture actor. She met him, they said, at tea dances at the Stratford.

To the ordinary man these revelations would have spelled tragedy. But Dorpolis neither bought a six shooter nor rushed to the police court. He went to his wife and talked the affair over calmly like a philosopher.

"What do you want to do?" he asked her.

"I guess," faltered his wife, "I want to go away."

"Offers to Finance Treaty."

"Very well," said Dorpolis. "I am sure your feeling for the other man is a mere infatuation that will pass as suddenly as it came. But you think you are in love with him. If you really love him, I am ready to step aside. I want you to be happy. Go and find out whether you love him. I will pay all your expenses. If you find happiness with him, our good-by will be for life. If not—well, we shall see."

So Mrs. Dorothy Dorpolis went out into the world to learn whether her feeling was love or merely fascination. She went to California. It is said her firm here was connected with a studio on the coast.

Returns to Chicago.

Ten days ago she returned to Chicago. She put up at the Northrop hotel. She went to see her husband. They had a long talk together. Then Mrs. Dorpolis went back to California.

While she was at the hotel she received a number of telegrams and special delivery letters. One guest accidentally saw a postcard. It came from Los Angeles. "I hope to see you soon," it read.

No one except the Dorpolis knows how Mrs. Dorpolis' search for happiness has turned out, nor if she has yet determined definitely whether her attraction for the actor is love or fascination. The strange experiment may still be in progress, or she may have reached the end.

Puzzle Unsolved.

Her return to Chicago might have seemed to indicate she had learned it was only a fleeting fancy that had lured her from her home and she loved her husband after all. But her second trip to California leaves the puzzle unsolved. It might suggest that she had found love and happiness with the other man.

Or it may be the conventions of society are blocking this unconventional romance from a happy ending and a reunited life.

"I'm still mighty fond of Dorothy," said Dorpolis in his lonely apartment last night. "I believe she still loves me. But as for taking her back, there are some things a man simply can't do. What would people say? Well, it's simply impossible—that's all."

"Will you get a divorce?" he was asked.

"I don't know that I will. Of course, I could get one by merely stating the facts. But I shall not be hasty. May be—well, you never can tell what will happen."

BAKERS VOTE TO STOP MAKING 5 CENT LOAVES

Legal Advice Shows Them How to Steer Clear of Anti-Trust Law.

THEY "RECOMMEND"

Master bakers, representing numerically 40 per cent of the baking establishments of the United States, and controlling about 60 per cent of the output of bread, "recommended" yesterday that bakers cease to make 5 cent loaves of bread and confine their standard output to a 10 cent loaf.

The action was taken at a special meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Master Bakers at the close of the association's convention in the west room of the Hotel Sherman.

Legal advice on which the "recommendation" was based was read to the bakers by President S. F. McDonald.

The opinion was signed by a well known Chicago attorney. In substance the opinion said the bakers would not run afoul of anti-trust laws should they "recommend" to each other and to the members of the association any size, shape, or quality of loaf.

However, the lawyer warned them against fixing prices for a specific article by "agreement," either as national or as local groups.

The opinion cautioned them that prices could best be raised by allowing some leading baker to set the pace in a community and then having other bakers "voluntarily" and without agreement follow the leader.

The master bakers voted to suppress the legal opinion and to prevent it from falling into the hands of newspaper men.

Another resolution passed by the bakers called on federal authorities to prohibit at once all exportation of this year's crop of wheat in order to force a lowering of prices for home consumption.

RESOLVE TO RAISE SIZE OF LOAF

An official report of the resolution raising the size of a standard loaf, as given out, was in part as follows:

"Representative bakers having accepted as true the following statements from reports of the Chicago market, verified and sworn to, showing the percentages of increase in costs in the two years, 1914-1916, as follows:

RAY MATERIALS.

Patent Flour..... 100
Wheat..... 100
Sugar..... 100
Shortening..... 100

DELIVERY ITEMS.

Gasoline..... 100
Feed..... 100
Hay..... 100
Lard..... 100
Milk..... 100
Salt..... 100
Soybean Oil..... 100
Wool..... 100

"Having in mind the obligation resting upon them to their fellow bakers and the consuming public; having taken counsel together, and having viewed the problem from all conceivable angles, these bakers do make and publish the following recommendations to the bakers of the United States of America, and strongly urge that they be put into effect immediately.

KNELL OF 5 CENT LOAF.

"It is recommended that the baking of the 5 cent loaf be discontinued, because of the economic waste incident to its manufacture and distribution."

"The evidence of accurate cost accounting has proved that the 10 cent loaf of bread is the most economical loaf to manufacture and market, representing, as it does, the maximum value to the consumer. It must justify itself because of the economy effected in manufacture and delivery. It has proved that there is a saving of 50 per 1,000 loaves in the manufacture of the larger loaf."

SAVES $25,000,000.

"On the basis of the annual consumption of 5,000,000,000 of small loaves of commercially baked bread in the United States, this means a saving to the consumers of $25,000,000. It is also a proved fact that the quality of the larger loaf is materially superior to that of the smaller loaf baked from the same dough. It is therefore recommended that the 10 cent loaf become the established unit of the baking trade. The bakers owe it to themselves to make the 10 cent loaf the standard."

MOSQUITO PARALYSIS PERIL.

Former Medical Chief for Siamese Government Calls Pest Carrier of Disease.

New York, Sept. 8.—The mosquito is blamed as a carrier of infantile paralysis in a letter that will be published tomorrow in the New York Medical Journal by Dr. Charles S. Braddock Jr., formerly chief medical inspector for the Siamese government.

Censorship Used by the British to Steal Trade

U. S. Officials Aroused by Admissions in Speech of Lloyd-George.

PLAN SHARP PROTEST

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—Great Britain is making use of its censorship of the American mails to boost the business of its subjects to the detriment of the business interests of the United States.

This state of affairs is revealed in admissions made by David Lloyd-George, the war secretary, before parliament, just received in full in this country.

Lloyd-George's statement arose, not in connection with enemy trade or imports to neutral countries, but entirely in regard to an attempt to build up a protective tariff wall for a new British industry against competition by imports from a neutral country.

"It is the practice to communicate to our departments concerned any information on matters of public interest which may be obtained through the censorship for such use to be made of it as the particular department may consider advisable," Lloyd-George said.

"The government is perfectly within its rights in using any information which comes to it in these conditions for any public and national purpose."

U. S. to Redouble Protests.

This statement, made recently in response to questions by members of the house of commons, created a stir there. It apparently had been censored out of cable dispatches to the United States.

When asked about the matter tonight, Secretary Lansing said it had been called to the attention of the state department officially but declined to make any comment at this time.

It is understood, however, that the department will take a most serious view of Lloyd-George's interpretation of the British war office's power and will protest most vigorously their ever against interference with neutral mails on the high seas.

First Charge of Misuse.

Although the American government has contended strongly against the wholesale detentions and seizures of mail between neutral countries as in violation of international law, so far there has been no formal charge of improper use was made of information gleaned from opened neutral correspondence.

BRITAIN FIRM ON BLACKLIST.

London, Sept. 8.—It is not likely that Great Britain will change her blacklist policy at the request of the United States," said Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade, in discussing today the possible effect of recent American retaliatory legislation. Lord Robert stated that a reply to the blacklist protest made by the United States may be expected soon.

"The ideas expressed by some of our newspapers that Great Britain is adopting a deliberate policy with which to injure American trade," Lord Robert said, "is the purest moonshine, since outside of our own dominions our trade with the United States is the most important."

"Any impression that the blacklist is merely an entering wedge for a trade warfare after the war may be dismissed. I assure you the blacklist is purely a war measure, and I cannot insist too strongly that the government is taking every precaution to guarantee its enforcement so as to cause as little hardship as possible to innocent traders."

RUSSIAN GENERAL ESCAPES GERMAN PRISON CAMP.

Korniloff Reaches Bucharest After Months of Adventure, Often Going Days Without Food.

PETROGRAD, via London, Sept. 8.—Gen. Korniloff, formerly commander of the Forty-eighth Russian division, who was captured by the Austro-Germans in Galicia in May, 1915, escaped from the prison camp in which he was held in Austria and has arrived at Bucharest, it is announced by the semi-official news agency. The Russian general reached the capital of Roumania after months of adventure in his trip across Hungary, walking by night and hiding by day. Frequently he had to go without food for days.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Fleet street today is talking over a newspaper mistake which, unless compromised, will result in a court action.

On Aug. 29 last a London illustrated daily printed on its back page a large photograph of a man in yachting dress and with a naval cap. Underneath the photograph was the inscription, "Capt. Max Valentiner," and over it, "The Lusitania Pirate."

No murderer's face ever seen in the dock was more typical than this. He looks capable of so dastardly a deed. It now turns out—the story goes—that the photograph is not that of Valentiner at all, but of Cornelius Vanderbilt, taken some time ago in yachting costume.

It is understood that Mr. Vanderbilt spoke between fights tonight at the Madison and Paulina streets last night.

A card of five bouts was presented the gathering, in which was sprinkled a number of the best known crooks and pickpockets known to the police. As each bout was concluded and the towel swingers stepped aside the candidates for office stepped forth and asked for votes.

RUSSIANS GO TO THE RESCUE OF ROUMANIA

Fight on Seventy Mile Front After Foe Takes Four Towns.

AUSTRIA ADMITS LOSS.

(By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, Sept. 9, 2 a. m.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Athens says information has been received there that the Russians have taken Negotin, the Serbian town near the Danube, and that another column of Russians is threatening Vidin, the fortified Bulgarian city on the right bank of the Danube. Bulgarian official reports are lacking.

(By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Russian troops based in great force in southeastern Roumania, have engaged the Bulgarians on the whole front from the Danube to the Black sea. They are fighting fiercely to wrest the offensive from the invader.

The Bulgarians, reinforced by Austrians and Turks, have advanced in two columns.

One, striking along the Black sea coast, has captured the fortress and town of Dobrich (Bardzjik), fifty miles to the southeast of Bucharest, the Roumanian capital, and has occupied the ports of Balchik, Kavarna, and Kali Akra, in southeastern Roumania.

The other force, commanded by the German general, Von Mackensen, took the fortress of Turtukal, on the Danube, as previously announced.

FRONT SEVENTY MILES LONG.

Before the enemy's advance the Roumanians fell back, waiting for the Russians to battle in this territory and concentrating their effort in Transylvania.

With the arrival of the Russians the armies began a general engagement along the entire front from the Black sea to the point where the Danube enters Roumania, a distance of seventy miles.

Thus far the Russians have prevented the enemy from crossing the Danube. If they can turn the tide of battle the Russians will attempt an invasion of Bulgaria from the north.

ADVANCE IN TRANSYLVANIA.

Meanwhile the Roumanians are pushing vigorously the thrust in Transylvania. Vienna admits a withdrawal from positions west of the Gyrogo line, in the northern part of the province, and Sofia concedes the abandonment of Orsova, on the Danube, near the Iron Gate.

King Ferdinand's forces are more than thirty miles from Transylvania on the north. This stroke, in conjunction with the pressure northward from the Hermannstadt line, is destined to force the Teuton out of Transylvania. It is progressing steadily.

The capture of Orsova gives the Roumanians a grip on the Austrian second line of defense behind the mountainous dividing Transylvania from Hungary. To the Teutons its loss means the hampering of traffic along the Danube, which served as a supply line for Turkey.

FURTHER GAINS EXPECTED.

The extent of the Roumanian advance is encouraging to military critics here. Czik-Szerda is the capital of the Hungarian county of Czik, and is situated on the Maros river.

The Vienna dispatch is taken here as indicating that the Teutonic forces have retired behind the Maros, shortening their line as they were expected to do before the Roumanian advance.

The entrance of Roumanians into the war increased the Austro-Hungarian front by about 350 miles, entirely too long, critics held, for the Teutonic army to hold.

GAIN MOUNTAIN PASSES.

Moreover, the retirement of the Austrians means that the Roumanians have carried all the principal passes of the Carpathians. It has been reported that the Roumanians, sixteen miles south of Hermannstadt, and the delta south of Kronstadt, six miles within the Transylvanian border, had been taken.

The retreat from Czik-Szerda suggests that the Teutonic forces have been driven back to the Maros.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—During a severe wind and rain storm that lashed Greater New York today James H. Reynolds, secretary of the Republican national committee, was struck by mortar from a cornice and narrowly escaped serious injury from the fall of a partition when a sudden gust swept into Republican national headquarters. The weather bureau estimates the velocity of the wind as sixty miles an hour.

HUGHES ASSAILS DEMOCRATS FOR 'BOWING TO FORCE'

Urges Maine Voters Never to Surrender Government by Law and Reason.

Bangor, Me., Sept. 8.—Maine audience here tonight to hear Charles E. Hughes assailing the administration for a "surrender to force" in the enactment of the Adams law.

The speaker ended the second day of his Maine campaign with an address in the auditorium here tonight, in which he brought his audience to its feet with prolonged applause and cheers by a declaration that the American people would never give up government by law and reason, won at the cost of continuous fighting.

"Look at the history of the past," he said, "and of its majestic spectacle of the people coming down that long path. Now they are defeated; now they are victorious, but still they come on—the main people."

"They come slowly on, winning their way, crushing out every form of tyranny, destroying autocracy, securing the right to choose their own representatives, winning representative government till here in America we have the finest demonstration the world has ever known of government by law and reason. Never! Never! Shall we give it up? Never! Never!"

The audience rose, waved hundreds of small American flags, cheered and applauded.

Assaults Adams Law.

In all his four addresses today—at Bangor, Waterville, Pittsfield, and here—the nominee made his attack on the administration in connection with the Adams law, one of his chief themes.

Crowds turned out at each place to hear him and cheered and applauded. In his last speech here tonight the nominee told his audience that he felt that of a Republican victory in both the state and the nation.

In his speeches today Mr. Hughes, in addition to discussing the Adams law, outlined his views on the tariff, penitentiaries, Americanism, efficiency of government, a world court, and other Republican policies.

He also reviewed his record as governor of New York in connection with the Adams law, declaring that he was the friend of labor and would be the first to give higher wages were the demand for higher wages found to be based on an examination of the facts, but added that he would first investigate the facts.

Each Side Sees Victory.

While the Republican presidential candidate was "burning up" the professional side of his country the professional side of his country were seeing "burning up" of majorities for their respective sides.

An unopposed cheerer felt justified in saying that neither side has any right to say that it is actually going to happen on Monday, when the Maine voters drop the ticket of 15-20,000 for their state ticket a couple of weeks ago, have shaded their figures 70 per cent and now appear to be content with 60,000 or the less.

The Republicans, who have been the victors in the fight as already won, they say the president is stronger today than he ever has been; that the result on Monday will be a vindication of the national indecision of his administration.

Amble Over Campaign Issues.

Until the advent of Hughes yesterday to provide the nearest approach to an intelligent program for his party, both sides have been ambling over the same old campaign issues, but the entire field of political discussion, not a subject under the sun has been neglected.

The Maine electors have enjoyed a vast amount of entertaining information and have been able to get the industrial ways seemingly prosperous and content with their "favorable" view of Mr. Hughes as described it at times.

The national committee of both parties, with an eye to the psychological advantage of carrying Maine, have sent all sorts of talent into the state to argue, for the most part, about things for which the voters care little or nothing, excepting matters of local interest, of which they know less than the residents of the state.

Denounces Her Father.

Theodore Anastoskos, the father, arrived last night. He was immediately taken to see his daughter. He attempted to take her in his arms and kiss her, but she repelled his advances and at first refused to speak to him. Finally she broke out:

"I am not going to go home with you. I would rather die first. I would rather stay in jail all my life than go back with you. You beat me every day of my life. If I went back with you I would be dead inside of a week."

"I wish you were," interjected her father. "I am going to send you back to my family in Greece."

"You are not. If there is justice in this world," was the answer.

Anastoskos then injected a new angle in the case.

"Where is that $1,400 you stole from your mother's trunk?" he demanded of the girl.

There was a surprised look on the face of the girl, who retorted:

"If I had $1,400 I would not be working in a 5 and 10 cent store to support myself. I never took any of your money."

GOMPERS ANSWERS HUGHES.

Portland, Me., Sept. 8.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in an address here tonight took issue with Charles E. Hughes' criticism of the Adams law.

"The law was enacted through compromise and it was enacted through compromise," Gompers said. "The law was enacted through compromise and it was enacted through compromise."

Gompers said that he knew of no threats having been made and that no force was used. He said he did not have much faith in what could be accomplished by law, but in this instance he added, he felt Congress had shown itself in favor of the principle of the right to work as one that applied to the same of justice.

GIRL RESCUED IN RANSOM PLOT

Demand in Letter for $200 Leads to Trap and Arrest.

A 16-year-old girl, said to have been held for ransom for nearly a month, was rescued by detectives yesterday in a Negro rooming house at 4838 South State street.

The girl is Mary Anastoskos, daughter of a prosperous restaurant owner of Newport News, Va. She disappeared from her home Aug. 8 and the police of virtually every city in the United States have been asked to search for her.

Letter Demands $200.

A few days ago the restaurant man received a letter, postmarked Chicago, demanding $200 for his daughter's return. The letter named an address on the south side to which the money was to be sent.

Anastoskos communicated with the Chicago police, and Detective Mooney and Neary went to the address given. Here they were met by a Negro, who at first said his name was John Smith, but later admitted his real name is Ernest.

"I'm Anastoskos," said Mooney. "I've got the money here. Now, where's my daughter?"

Best look the detectives to the State street rooming house, where Mary was recognized from a photograph sent by her father. Best was arrested and the girl taken into custody.

"Both the Negro man worked for my father and it was in this way that I got acquainted with them," said the girl in the evening at the South Clark street annex. "I wanted to get away from my father because he never let me go out to have any pleasure. It was always work for me."

T. R. MOVIE STAR WILL PUT "PEP" INTO CAMPAIGN

Snapped by Camera Man Along with Solicitous Republican Leaders at Oyster Bay.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 8.—(Special.)—Col. Roosevelt, after listening to a speech from the managers of the Republican campaign at Sagamore Hill, today agreed to inject more "pep" in the campaign and to take a more active part in trying to elect the Republican ticket that he had originally contracted for.

While the colonel will not make many more speeches than he has already agreed to, he will be in constant touch with Chairman Willcox and the other leaders.

The Republican leaders descended on Sagamore Hill today, ostensibly for the purpose of having moving pictures taken of the colonel, Chairman Willcox, and the other members of the Republican national committee. Before the visit was ended it had resolved itself into a general demand for the colonel's intimate association with the campaign.

First "Pop" Injection Tuesday.

The colonel will lead luncheon with Chairman Willcox, Brewster Colby, Frank H. Hitchcock, Cameron Forbes, George W. Perkins, and other leaders at Sagamore Hill Tuesday. The colonel at this affair will administer the first "pop" injection.

Aside from the deep political importance attached to the outcome of the pilgrimage to Oyster Bay, the moving picture performance was the feature, with Everett Colby acting as impresario and Hale Reid as director. The colonel was led out to the lawn and Chairman Willcox placed beside him.

"Now, wake up, you fellows," shouted Reid, "walk right up, shake hands, and try to look like live ones."

Shakes Hands for Camera.

In the meantime the colonel and Willcox were going it hammer and tongs, the colonel twisting the air and grinding his jaws like a ferocious bear. Finally the handshaking ordeal was over and the "actors" were grouped behind the colonel.

Among those present, in addition to Willcox, Perkins, Hitchcock, and Colby, were Herbert Parsons, Charles E. Warren, Maj. Edward E. Moore, Cameron Forbes, Cornelius K. Bliss Jr., treasurer of the national committee; G. R. Scruggs, D. B. Atherton, David Barry, James B. Reynolds, secretary of the national committee; John W. McDowell, secretary to Col. Roosevelt; William B. Brewster, and a number of representatives of the Hughes alliance.

Raymond Robins a Guest.

After the national committee had departed, Raymond Robins, who was chairman of the Progressive national convention, arrived and had luncheon with the colonel. Labor matters were chiefly discussed. The colonel has a high regard for Robins' knowledge of the labor situation and is preparing his next speech along that line.

Slotted Captains TO GET OFF EASY

Civil Service Commission Not to Oust Any of Accused Trio.

MAY GET SMALL FINE.

The city civil service commission, it was learned yesterday, has about decided not to "fire" any one of the three police captains involved in the slot machine cases.

It was reported on seemingly reliable authority that whatever penalty is imposed by the commission, it will not exceed a fine of thirty days' pay—about $250.

The captains on trial are Thomas F. Cronin of the Kensington station, James O'Toole of the Sheffield avenue station, and Thomas J. Coughlin of the stock yards station. They are charged with violating Chief Healey's order directing commanding officers not to allow the operation of slot machines in their districts.

No Decision Till Next Week.

Although the Cronin case was completed yesterday, the commission will not announce its decision till the first of next week, when the other two cases will have been finished. The verdict as to all three captains then will be officially made known.

Unless unexpected evidence is brought to the surface, however, the captains are expected to get off with a fairly heavy fine, according to a man close to the commission.

"At the outset of these trials," he said, "there was a big demand to make an example of these captains. There were charges that some of the commanding officers were getting graft money out of the machines. It looked like a sure thing that at least two or three captains would be fired from the force."

No Evidence of Collusion.

"Well, no evidence of any kind tending to prove graft or collusion has been introduced. On the other hand, the fact that the machines were permitted to operate is practically undisputed and the three captains have admitted receiving instructions from the chief to order them out."

Since Mayor Thompson suspended Assistant Corporation Counsel Erickson and Chief Investigator Busch of the city attorney's office it has come to be regarded as certain that the police captains would not have allowed the machines to operate unless they had received quiet (though unauthorized) instructions from the chief to order them out.

Although nothing of this kind has come into the record, it is believed it will have a bearing in mitigating the commission's verdicts.

DIDN'T KNOW SHE SIGNED WILL, RELATIVES ASSESS.

Mrs. Della Graydon Thought She Was Arranging Affairs in Lodge, Bill Alleges.

In a bill filed yesterday in the Circuit court to set aside the will of the late Mrs. Della Graydon, 8888 West Polk street, her relatives allege the document admitted in the Probate court as the will of Della Graydon was obtained by misrepresentation.

Mrs. Kate Eberhardt, a sister, John Carr, a brother, and their children bring the suit against Elizabeth Headley, 2038 North Albany avenue, and Ambrose A. Worsley, an attorney, who are named executor and executrix of the will.

The estate amounts to $10,000, and according to the provisions of the will is to be held in trust for the care and education of John Graydon until he is 21 years old.

The petitioners, through their attorneys, C. B. O'Meara, allege John Graydon is not the child of the deceased, nor is he related nor was he ever adopted.

The petition alleges that Mrs. Headley called on Mrs. Graydon the day before she died and said she had come to "straighten out Mrs. Graydon's dues in the order of the Ladies of the Macabees."

It is said, she put it in her stocking and refused to let Mrs. Eberhardt see it, and left through the rear entrance of the house.

SAN SALVADOR WINS CLAIM OVER U. S. NAVAL BASE

Central American Court Decides Against Nicaragua in Fonseca Bay Case.

San Salvador, Sept. 8.—The claim of the republic of Salvador against the government of Nicaragua concerning the treaty between the United States and Nicaragua for the establishment of a naval base in Fonseca bay by the United States has been allowed by the Central American court.

Salvador appealed to the Central American court on the ground that its rights had been infringed by the Nicaraguan treaty for the establishment of a naval base in Fonseca bay.

ROEDER TELLS OF HIS FATAL FIGHT WITH ATTORNEY

Candidate Freely Admits Slaying by Accident, for Which He Was Exonerated.

A skeleton has been dragged from the closet of Attorney Leo V. Roeder to annoy him in his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Municipal Judge.

Mrs. Joseph E. Waller, 4344 Champlain avenue, brought it out, probably to avenge the death of her nephew, Attorney Claude L. Waller, who was accidentally slain by Roeder in a fight twenty-two years ago. Roeder was convicted of manslaughter and a sentence of two years in the penitentiary was imposed, but upon motion for a new trial made by Roeder's counsel, Attorney W. S. Forrest, Judge Tutthill set the verdict aside, and Mr. Roeder never served a day, except a brief time in jail awaiting bail pending the trial.

The Bar association never took any action. According to all reports, Roeder has since lived a clean life. In an afternoon newspaper yesterday Mrs. Waller was quoted as telling the story.

Here Is Roeder's Story.

Roeder's story of the case, as told to The Tribune, follows:

"I was about 23 years old and an employee of the law firm of Brandt & Hoffman. I was slight, weighed about 130 pounds, and Waller was a big man of about 200 pounds.

"One of my clients was having trouble with his wife over alimony, and Waller came to my desk with her to collect a part payment. I laid upon the table a $20 bill and expected Waller to take it all and give me the change. I presented a receipt for the woman to sign. Waller and I had words. He grabbed the bill and with the hand which held the money struck me across the face and knocked my head against the wall.

"To intimidate him, I reached into my drawer for an old revolver, when Waller made another lunge and started around the desk after me, threatening to throw me out of the window. In the confusion the hammer caught on the face board of the drawer and the weapon was discharged. I had no intention of pulling the trigger. It was purely an accident.

"When I was taken from the fall to give bonds former Judge Chetlain said: 'Mr. Roeder, it was a shame to arrest you. Waller had no more right to grab that money and refuse a receipt than he would have had to take money from the pocket of a man on the street.'

Freed by Court Order.

"It is not true that I was freed through the influence of State Attorney Jacob Kern. I had no political influence then, and I thought tooth and nail for conviction. When Mr. Forrest argued for a new trial Judge Tutthill said he was convinced it was a clear case of self-defense. It was the court and not Kern, or any other politician, who nolle prossed the case, and Judge Tutthill acted on his own initiative on the merits of the evidence.

"I have lived at 2152 West Twelfth street for thirty-three years and the Waller case is the only black mark against my character. My friends discussed the case thoroughly with me before I allowed my name to go on the ticket."

The facts are substantially as Mr. Roeder stated them," said Mr. Forrest. "It was a clear case of self-defense, and there never would have been a conviction if the state's attorney hadn't got before the jury a lot of things that didn't belong there. Roeder settled down years ago and is a respected member of the bar."

WOMEN EXTEND FIGHT AGAINST RISQUE SHOWS

Watch Will Be Kept Upon All the Theaters Throughout the City.

The fight made by the woman's church federation last year, when several theaters in South State street were closed, is to be renewed and extended throughout the city, according to action taken yesterday at a meeting of the federation in the Stratford hotel.

Only Two Remain Closed.

"Two of the eight theaters on State street which were closed," she said, "have remained closed, four of them which are again operating are somewhat improved, and two have steadily declined in morals."

"Admittance reports on four large burlesque houses have been filed with Chief of Police Healey. Progress has also been made to police captains concerning conditions in the districts where they are in charge."

The posters and photographs exhibited in front of theaters are in the main far less indecent, although some ought not to be tolerated in a Christian city.

Hits Theater Managers.

"We have found there exist a most disgusting prostitution of the female form on the part of chorus girls and managers because the stage and theater managers demand it."

"We have found a shameful exploitation of young womanhood. Sensuality and degeneracy are fostered by the burlesque and often by the vaudeville shows to an alarming degree."

"The motion picture is another source of menace to the morals of the boys and girls. Drinking, gambling, cigarette smoking, robbery, suicide, and murder are either suggested or strikingly pictured. Domestic infidelity, discreditable appointments, the 'eternal triangle' are constantly being dragged into view."

There are sixty church districts in the women's federation and Mrs. Robb said it is the purpose to place a chairman in each district and a committee in charge of every theater and movie picture house.

BAKERS SOUND KNELL OF 5 CENT BREAD LOAVES

Legal Advice Shows Them Way to Steer Clear of Anti-Trust Law.

The most profitable loaf for the consumer to purchase.

Where local conditions seem to demand the use of an intermediate loaf, it should be discretionary with the local bakers to maintain a smaller unit, charging for the same, a price consistent with the market value of ingredients.

The resolutions were signed by S. F. McDonald of Memphis, president of the association, and the following members of the special committee: Roy L. Nafziger, Kansas City, Mo.; D. C. Funge, Joplin, Mo.; W. A. Korn, Davenport, Ia.; B. S. Well, Cincinnati, O.; and Louis Deiter, Minneapolis.

Urge Wheat Embargo.
After citing the fact that the current wheat crop is insufficient for domestic requirements and that its exportation would impose a tax on American consumers equal to whatever premiums Europe is willing to pay for wheat, and that every dollar in export taxes amounts to $5, the bakers in their second resolution said:

"Resolved, by representative bakers of the United States in conference assembled, That they do earnestly petition the properly constituted federal authorities to impose such restrictions and restraints upon the further export of American wheat as will conserve the present crop for home consumption.

"In justification of such request we cite the facts indicated by the federal census of 1912 that not to exceed 2 per cent of our population is interested in wheat prices from the standpoint of producer, while 98 per cent is interested from the standpoint of consumer; and that forcing our people to bid for our own wheat in competition with Europe imposes upon them at today's prices an additional cost of $25,000,000 per month."

Schulze Plan for Change.
Paul Schulze of the Schulze Baking company said last night that the change in standard sizes, so far as his firm was concerned, would be made "as soon as the public can be induced to buy the larger loaf."

"The change is a matter of competition," said Mr. Schulze. "We are making 10 cent loaves now. We will eliminate the 5 cent loaf just as soon as we can persuade the public to accept the larger one."

Mr. Schulze admitted that there is nothing to prevent bakers from charging 10 cents for a loaf only a little bigger than the present 5 cent loaf.

No Law Fixing Weight.
"The laws fixing the weights of loaves are dead letters," he said. "Our present 5 cent loaf weighs about 12 ounces. The 10 cent loaf should weigh 24 ounces. But it is my opinion that if a baker cared to do it he might put out a loaf weighing say 16 ounces and charge 10 cents for it. He might get that price, too, if the bread were of extra quality."

Kohlman to Abolish Small Loaf.
F. R. Kohlman of H. H. Kohlman & Co. was not present at the meeting which adopted the resolutions. "You can say for the firm I represent," he told a reporter, "that we will at once begin eliminating the 5 cent loaf and offering in its stead the 10 cent loaf. It may take some time, but we will do it."

"With us it means the housewife is to get twice as much bread for a dime as she did for a nickel. There is a law which requires the stamping of the minimum weight on a loaf, so the housewife can see the weight for herself. Competition is too sharp to permit any baker to give less bread for a dime than he does now."

WILSON REGRETS CONGRESS DID NOT CLEAR RAIL ISSUE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—In a statement issued following the adjournment of congress, President Wilson called attention to the "helpful and humane legislation" passed and declared that while he regretted additional legislation dealing with the recent dispute between the railroads and their employees had not been completed, he had every reason to believe the question would be taken up immediately after congress reconvenes. The president's statement follows:

"A very remarkable session of congress has just closed, full, as all recent sessions of congress have been, of helpful and humane legislation, which constitutes contributions of capital importance to the defense, the economic process, and the wholesome life of the country."

"It is to be regretted that the session could not have continued long enough to complete the program recently projected with regard to the accommodation of labor disputes between the railroads and the employees, but it was not feasible in the circumstances to continue the session any longer and therefore only the most immediately pressing parts of the program could be completed."

"The rest, it is agreed, has merely been postponed until it can be more maturely deliberated and perfected. I have every reason to believe that it is the purpose of the leaders of the two houses immediately upon the reassembly of congress to undertake this additional legislation. It is evident that the country should be relieved of the anxiety which must have been created by recent events with regard to the future accommodation of such disputes."

HULL-DENEEN SLATE MADE; MARKED BALLOTS SENT OUT.

Howard Jayne for Secretary of State and Julius Johnson for Auditor Given O. K.

The Hull-Deneen-Progressive combination made a state slate yesterday. Marked sample ballots, headed by the name of Senator Hull for governor, went to every registered voter in Cook county. The selections for officers below governor on the sample ballots are as follows:

Secretary of State—Howard Jayne of Memphis.
State auditor—Julius Johnson of Rock Island.
Attorney general—George H. Wilson of Quincy.

No choice was made for lieutenant governor, state treasurer, or congressman at large.

Mr. Jayne, favored candidate for secretary of state, was a Progressive member of the legislature of 1912. As a member of the legislative committee that investigated the million dollar voting machine deal in Chicago, he took a conspicuous part in the search for evidence conducted by former Gov. Deneen.

Julius Johnson, for auditor, is heavily backed by the Swedish-American Republican league and is credited with big domestic support.

Deneen managers did not care to oppose John G. Oglesby for lieutenant governor, it is understood, and because of factional difficulties in Sangamon county declined to pick George Keys of Springfield for state treasurer against Len Small. Both offices are left open.

For congressmen at large several of the ward ballots are marked for Medill McCormick.

Florida Land Man Accused.
James W. Maples of 2929 Pine Grove avenue, a dealer in Florida lands, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging he obtained $500 by confidence game from William De Bever of 418 Church street, Evanston. Maples was arrested in his office at 11 South La Salle street. De Bever charges Maples did not own the land in question.

add the federal government, how you were going to balance the claims of property against the processes of liberty, how you were going to make your governmentments up so as to balance the parts against each other, so that the legislature would check the executive, and the executive the legislature, and the courts both of them put together."

Nation Once a Machine.
"The whole conception of government when the United States became a nation was a mechanical conception of government, and the mechanical conception of government which underlay it was the Newtonian theory of the universe."

"If you pick up the Paleyist some parts of it read like a treatise on astronomy instead of a treatise on government. They speak of the centrifugal and the centripetal forces, and locate the president somewhere in a rotating system. And the whole thing is a calculation of power and an adjustment of parts."

Slavery Gave Women Start.
"And then something happened. A great question arose in this country which, though complicated with legal elements, was at bottom a human question, and nothing but a question of humanity.

"That was the slavery question, and it is not significant that it was then, and then for the first time, that women became prominent in politics in America. Not many women. Thousands of them in that day are so few that you can almost name them over in a brief catalog, but, nevertheless, they then began to play a part in writing, not only, but in public speech, which was a very novel part for women to play in America; and after the civil war had settled some of what seemed to be the most difficult legal questions of our system the life of the nation began not only to unfold but to accumulate."

Political Questions Altered.
"Life in the United States was a comparatively simple matter at the time of the civil war. There was some of that underground struggle which is now so manifest to those who look only a little way beneath the surface."

"The pressure of low wages, the agony of obscure and unremunerated toil did not exist in America in anything like the same proportions that they exist now. And as our life has unfolded and accumulated, as the contacts of it have become hot, as the populations have assembled in the cities and the cool spaces of the country have been supplemented by the feverish urban areas, the whole nature of our political questions have been altered."

"They have ceased to be legal questions. They have more and more become social questions; questions with regard to the relations of human beings to one another—not merely their legal relations but their moral and spiritual relations to one another."

Suffrage Gathers Force.
"And this has been most characteristic of American life in the last few decades, and as these questions have assumed greater and greater prominence the movement which this association represents has gathered cumulative force."

So that, if anybody asks himself, 'What does this gathering force mean?' if he knows anything about the history of the country, he knows that it means something that has not only come to stay but has come with conquering power."

"I get a little impatient some times about the discussion of the channels and methods by which it is to prevail. It is going to prevail, and that is a very superficial and ignorant view of it which attributes it to mere social unrest. It is not merely because the women have seen visions of duty, and that is something which we not only cannot resist but if we be true Americans, we do not wish to resist."

Visions Become Realities.
"Because America took its origin in visions of the human spirit, in aspirations for the deepest sort of liberty of the mind and of the heart, and as visions of that sort come up to the sights of those who are spiritually minded in America, America comes more and more into her birthright and into the perfection of her development. So that what we have to realize in dealing with forces of this sort is that we are dealing with the substance of life itself."

"I have felt as I sat here tonight the wholesome contagion of the occasion. Almost every other time that I ever visited Atlantic City I came to fight somebody. I hardly know how to conduct myself when I have not come to fight against anybody, but with somebody."

Sees Ultimate Victory.
"I have come to suggest, among other things, that when the forces of nature are steadily working and the tide is rising to meet the moon, you need not be afraid that it will not come to its flood."

"We feel the tide; we rejoice in the strength of it, and we shall not quarrel in the long run as to the method of it. Because when you are working with masses of men and organized bodies of opinion you have got to carry the organized body along."

"The whole art and practice of government consists, not in moving individuals, but in moving masses. It is all very well to run ahead and beckon, but after all you have got to wait for them to follow."

"I have not come to ask you to be patient, because you have been, but I have come to congratulate you that there was a force behind you that will, beyond any peradventure, be triumphant and for which you can afford a little while to wait."

Resolution Anti-Wilson.
The Robins resolution, beaten early in the day, according to some of the delegates, was a direct slap at President Wilson. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw came to the defense of the executive. It was through her efforts that the resolution was defeated."

Just before the close of the afternoon session the association raised $218,900 for the year's work on suffrage, most of which will go into the campaign between now and election. It had hoped to secure a million. The largest amount was pledged by New York, with $225,000 and various additional personal pledges. Pennsylvania was second with $120,000, and then came Massachusetts with $60,000.

The Chicago Equal Suffrage association promised to contribute $25,000 and there were personal pledges in addition by Mrs. Augustus Peabody, Miss Susette Ryerson, and Mrs. Jacob Baur. The Illinois Equal Suffrage association made no contribution. Mrs. H. M. Brown, president, said that the situation in the state was so upset that it could not say what it would give.

CANDIDATES OUT FOR EXTENSION OF CIVIL SERVICE

Test Majority of Cook County Racers Favors Reforms Urged by League.

General approval of the campaign of the Illinois and Chicago Civil Service League, for an extension of the civil service laws, both nationally and locally, is voiced by Illinois state candidates and congressional and legislative primary candidates in Cook county.

A poll just completed indicates that voters in next week's primaries will be pretty well pledged to support comprehensive measures at Springfield and Washington. State and legislative candidates are practically unanimous, but there is a diversity of opinion among congressional candidates as to the particular line of reform.

While nearly all pledge themselves to aid in strengthening national laws, there is a sharp division over second class postmasterhips, for one thing, and the proposed modification of the "rule of three" and abolition of the apportionment provision.

Under the present national law the two highest aspirants in examinations are entitled to heads of departments who use their discretion in picking the employee desired.

These Questions Asked. The questions put up to the congressional candidates were:

1. Do you favor the extension of the merit system in the federal service and in particular do you favor including first and second class postmasterhips in the classified service?
2. Do you favor abolishing the "rule of three"?
3. Do you favor the jurisdiction of the civil service commission to include the matter of discharge of classified employes from the federal service?
4. Do you favor abolishing the apportionment provision in the United States civil service laws?

Opposes Including Postmasters. Of the candidates for congressmen at large, W. Eliza Williams, Democrat, says he is in favor of the extension of the system, but not to second class postmasterhips unless a plan is arranged to divide them politically between the two dominant parties. He opposes the other three propositions. Joseph O. Kottner, Democrat, replied yes to all proposals, and Thomas O. McMillen, Democrat, favors extension of the system, but is opposed to the specific extensions named.

On the Republican side W. G. Cochran is favorable to all proposals, but would have apportionment based on population and not state lines. David Larson wants postmasters put under classified service and is for all proposals.

William E. Hansen replied: "I have been for civil service in legislature, congress, and United States senate for twenty-five years. McMillen McCormick replied yes as to second class postmasterhips, doubtful as to abolishing "rule of three," yes as to extending law to discharge, uncertain as to abolishing apportionment provision. The league adds: "Mr. McCormick was an aggressive friend of the merit system in the Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth general assemblies."

Cook County Candidates. The poll of the district candidates in Cook county follows:

First District. Democrats—Charles M. Banta, no reply. Thor J. Benson, favorable to all proposals. Republicans—Andrew H. Hull, has comprehensive civil service plank in his platform but does not reply to questions. Robert Brand, yes to all proposals. Congressman Martin B. Madson did not reply.

Second District. Democrats—George Shelly Hughes, generally approves extension but does not specify. Morris Wilson, yes to all propositions. Republicans—The Rev. Melbourne P. Boynton, yes to all. No reply from Congressman Mann.

Third District. Democrats—No replies from any. Republicans—William W. Wilson, yes to all questions, but would not apply abolishment of apportionment to Washington, D. C. Albert J. Fisher, yes to last three questions.

Fourth District. No replies from any candidates in this, the stockyards district.

Fifth District. Republicans—James S. Winner and

"Pittsburgh Lizzie" Samples the "Jungle Stew" at the Strikers' Benefit and O. K.'s It.

"Pittsburgh Lizzie"

"Pittsburgh Lizzie" was the only name she would give, but she said the mulligan was fine. "Mulligan," or "jungle stew," is the mainstay of hobo men. It was served last night from washboilers in which it was cooked, in the yard in the rear of Liberty hall, 2941 Indiana avenue.

There was a large gathering to eat "jungle stew" as it is cooked in the hobo camps. There were lines for those who failed to eat with a stick or who came within three feet of the cook's fire. "Jungle Jack" was the cook.

Charles Toepfer, yes to all questions. Democrats—No replies.

Republicans—Arthur W. Fulton, yes to all questions. William L. Loring, yes to all questions. John C. Coorsrove, yes to all. No replies from Carl Murray and Meyer J. Stein.

Seventh District. Democrats—John E. Van Natta and Frank J. Welch, yes on all questions. No reply from Frank Buchanan. Republicans—Albert H. Miller, stands on Republican platform. Carl C. Quale, for all proposals. William Grant Webster, yes, and Leo S. Malik, yes on all. Nels Juul and Albert H. Miller did not reply.

Eighth District. Democrats—Congressman Thomas Gallagher for first two reforms and "uncertain" on third and fourth. Republicans—Frank Smith, yes on all. Guy C. Crapple, favorable to all with certain reservations. Philip M. Kerkel for first question, but against the others.

Ninth District. Democrats—Patrick Farrell for all proposals. Republicans—Fred A. Britten favors first three proposals, silent on last. John A. Peterson for first two questions and for last two with qualifications.

SULLIVAN TARGET IN FIERCE ATTACK FROM RIVAL CLAN

Jump to Brinton Seen as Result of Harrison-Dunne-Lewis Pamphlet.

Indorsement of William B. Brinton for the Democratic nomination for governor by the Cook county managers' committee either today or Monday, precipitated by a stinging "roast" of Roger C. Sullivan by the Harrison-Dunne-Lewis campaign leaders, was talked loudly by all Sullivan leaders last night.

A meeting of the managing committee was called for 10 o'clock this morning at the Hotel Sherman, when an effort to put the Brinton indorsement through will be made.

The Briggs house committee, directed by the Harrison forces, flooded Chicago yesterday with a pamphlet entitled "Save the Honor of Chicago." The entire pamphlet is given over to a savage assault of Sullivan, purporting to review his public career from "Ogden gas days" to the present time.

Some of the Highlights. The chapter headings of the pamphlet read:

"Roger Sullivan has never been a Democrat."

"Why does Sullivan want to control the sanitary district?"

"Roger's interest in the board of assessors."

"Sullivan tries to dominate the Municipal court."

"Roger Sullivan repudiated by President Wilson."

"Debauching the election machinery."

"A public office is deemed a private snap."

Calls Sullivan Menace. The final chapter winds up thus:

For the honor of Chicago, Roger Sullivan's willing tools should be repudiated, and we appeal to your sense of loyalty and fair play to lend your aid in destroying the menace of one man power in politics."

What has roiled the Sullivan leaders to the boiling point is the history of the publication.

According to information they have the pamphlet was first printed carrying signatures of Carter Harrison, Phillip J. Angsten, John P. Gibbons, Gov. Dunne's chief grain inspector, and several other appointees of Gov. Dunne.

Sullivan men claim these signatures were used without permission of all the signers, and after 125,000 copies were printed they were destroyed and then reprinted, carrying only the signature of the "Cook County Democratic Organization Headquarters, Briggs House."

Authors of the Attack. Phillip J. McKenna, the Harrison candidate for president of the sanitary district, is charged with having written most of the book, and State Grain Inspector Gibbons also is held partly responsible by the Sullivan men.

James Dalley, chairman of the Sullivan managing committee, at once told his men in the Fourth ward to go out openly for Brinton at once, and plans were quickly made for an indorsement of Brinton in the Third ward, home ward of William L. O'Connell, Gov. Dunne's manager.

The indorsement of Brinton in the Third ward meeting was attended with some fireworks.

Dan Sullivan, representing the managing committee, made a fiery address in which he charged Gov. Dunne with having made Lawrence Y. Sherman United States senator, with having "betrayed the party" on several occasions, and with having used the state patronage to "benefit a few families in the Third ward."

He also read the pamphlet attacking Roger C. Sullivan and charged this up to Dunne's friends.

At the conclusion of this arrangement the meeting unanimously indorsed Brinton.

Jottings on National, State, and Local Candidates and Events.

National Democratic Chairman Vane McCormick will be in Chicago next Thursday for a conference with western managers and will then go to Indianapolis for the notification of Vice President Marshall.

Willis O. Nance, Republican candidate for the nomination for sanitary district trustee, said: "The payrolls of the district have increased to such an extent as to demand heroic curtailment. I favor publication of all monthly payrolls and will discountenance any attempt to cover up any transactions, financial or otherwise."

Fayette S. Munro, speaking at Bloomington last night, said that the government of Illinois "has been conducted on the plan of a drunkard's saloon."

Abram E. Adelman, Democratic candidate for the nomination for Municipal court judge, got the indorsement of officials of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Gov. Dunne declared that if the Progressives of Illinois wish to support a candidate in November who had written their platform into laws, they should get ready to vote for him.

They were received enthusiastically by fair crowds, fully half of whom were women. Frank Hanly, the party's presidential nominee, repeatedly designated President Wilson and Charles E. Hughes as "phases makers" who offered the country no fixed program for meeting the problems that it would face when the European war ended.

No "New America" Possible Now. "Mr. Wilson," said Hanly, "is committed to the continuance and perpetuation of a traffic that makes it impossible for us to be able and ready to play the part we should and mean to play. Mr. Hughes seems oblivious to the fact that there can be no new America while this traffic continues to grip and wound our people by multiplying defective, dependent, and derelicts."

Dr. Ira Landrith, the vice presidential nominee, pleaded for the women's vote.

NORTHUP URGES VOTERS TO HALT CITY HALL'S DESIGNS. In his speeches last night, John E. Northup, Republican candidate for state's attorney, said:

"Republicans realize the political and personal motives of the city hall in reaching out for the Criminal Court building."

"The safety of a city, the good name of a county are at stake. Let us, as Republicans, protect them both against the desperate onslaught of a Tammany-like city hall."

Prohibition Candidate, in Special Train, Rushes Through Illinois and Iowa.

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 8.—Prohibition orators on the initial day's journey of their coast to coast campaign special today invaded twelve Illinois cities and one Iowa city. They denounced the Republican and Democratic parties as organizations without an issue, said their own organization faced the country's gravest problems squarely, and made a special appeal for the women's vote.

They were received enthusiastically by fair crowds, fully half of whom were women. Frank Hanly, the party's presidential nominee, repeatedly designated President Wilson and Charles E. ## BOHEMIAN EDITOR ASKS WILSON TO CLEAR NAME

Dr. Jaka of Chicago Waits Months for Exoneration of Charge He Had Part in German Plots.

Dr. Frank Jaka, editor of Vesper, a weekly Bohemian newspaper published in Chicago, yesterday addressed an open letter to President Wilson appealing for an "order that I, as an American citizen, receive justice."

Dr. Jaka's special grievance is against the department of justice and is the result of the series of articles published several months ago in the Providence Journal, giving details of alleged German plots in the United States. In one of the articles Dr. Jaka's name appeared, the authority being an alleged letter from Baron Zwiadinek, charge d'affaires of the Austro-Hungarian embassy at Washington.

The department of justice, according to the Bohemian editor, and at his request, investigated this charge and it was found that the alleged letter from Baron Zwiadinek was a forgery. Dr. Jaka then appealed for exoneration in the matter, but was put off, he says. Then, he wrote President Wilson and in reply was told that to publish the facts then would make it difficult to trace the forgers.

Now, after having waited months, the editor thinks it time that his innocence be proclaimed, and that he shall not be "morally ruined and financially destroyed by a shot which evidently was fired by the agents of one foreign power at the representatives of another foreign power."

ASK PASTORS TO URGE VOTE. All clergymen of the Protestant Episcopal church were sent a letter yesterday bearing a special delivery stamp. The letter was from the committee of social service of the church and requested every clergyman to urge his congregation tomorrow to go to the polls on primary election day next Wednesday and vote. The letter did not name any candidates nor give instructions concerning how the members of the church should vote, but it pointed out the laxity among good people in the matter of voting.

LAKE EARA. "75 Minutes from State Street" is a singularly beautiful spring-fed lake, stocked with game fish, is only a few miles from the loop. It is in the heart of the colony of wealthy men who maintain farm-houses along the Des Plaines River near Libertyville.

Lake Eara and the wooded hills which surround it, known as Kenloch Park, have remained secluded from public because the whole was comprised within the estate of a nationally known millionaire.

I have bought this property and am going to make it the very finest park of summer homes in the Central West. I will sell only to the right kind of people and under severe restrictions. I will insure the maintenance of this estate as a private park, to which only residents and their friends will be admitted.

The former owner retains a small frontage on the lake, and I have sold another frontage to the exclusive Kenloch Country Club, now being organized by wealthy girls who have summer homes in the vicinity of Lake Eara. CHILD LABOR.—Denying interstate commerce to products of mines and quarries employing children under 14 years of age and to factories, mills, canneries, and other establishments employing children under 14 years.

RURAL CREDITS.—Establishing a farm loan board in control of a system of farm loan mortgage banks.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.—Providing uniform sick and accident benefits for employees of the federal government and benefits to dependents in case of death.

EMERGENCY REVENUES.—Providing for doubling the normal income tax on the lowest class; making an additional surtax ranging from 1 per cent on that portion of income exceeding $50,000 to 13 per cent on amounts of income in excess of $200,000; levying a graduated tax of 1 to 10 per cent on inheritances ranging from $50,000 to $1,000,000; a 10 per cent net profit tax on manufacturers of munitions; a license tax on actually invested capital stock of corporations capitalized at more than $50,000; wine, beer, and liquor excise taxes and miscellaneous stamp taxes.

GOOD ROADS.—Providing for cooperative federal aid to the states for construction of highways, and appropriating $75,000,000 to be spent in five years.

POSTAL SAVINGS.—Amendment increasing the amount which individuals may deposit from $500 to $1,000 with interest and an additional $1,000 without interest.

FEDERAL RESERVE.—Amendments including amendment to the Clayton anti-trust law, permitting officers and directors of member banks to become officers and directors of not more than two other noncompeting banks; amendments permitting national banks to establish foreign branches, liberalizing regulations for discounting commercial paper, and permitting member banks in towns of 5,000 or less population to act as agents for insurance companies.

Act's on Germany's Threat.

Congress in this session was called on to deal with a crisis in the international situation which followed Germany's naval order to sink armed merchant ships without warning. Introduction of resolutions warning Americans to keep off armed merchantmen caused President Wilson to halt diplomatic negotiations and to the cabinet to demand a "show-down." Immediately afterwards the president sent to Germany and read to congress a note threatening to sever diplomatic relations unless the German government "immediately effected a modification of its methods of submarine warfare."

In the week before adjournment congress was occupied with the threatened nationwide railroad strike. Its work resulted in the passage of the eight hour law.

During the session 17,800 bills and 642 resolutions were introduced in the house. Of these, 232 bills became laws and 33 public resolutions were adopted. In addition to 130 private bills and resolutions passed.

Plans for Next Session.

While the closing of the session saw the administration legislative program mainly completed, some things were left to be continued at the winter session, notably the remainder of the president's program of railroad legislation. The immigration bill, the corrupt practices bill and the bill to permit combinations of American exporters to meet foreign competition abroad also went over.

No matter what happens in the November election, the Democratic congress has three months of work ahead and an ambitious program to complete.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Reassembled at 8 a. m. Passed the homestead grazing bill. Adopted resolution for investigation of alleged lobby opposing retaliatory provision revenue bill against Canadian fisheries and calling for a report at next session.

Senator Owen withdrew his corrupt practices bill. Passed bill creating a national park in Alaska around Mt. McKinley. Adjourned sine die at 3:30 a. m.

Reassembled at 8:30 a. m. Appropriations for session were announced as $1,028,489,210. Adjourned sine die at 10 a. m. of the appropriations made at this session of congress $200,000,000 at the outside, can be charged to what is commonly called national preparedness.

The difference between the appropriations of this session, less $200,000,000, and that of the fiscal year 1910 shows the wanton extravagance of this administration.

All Records Are Broken.

"There has been appropriated at the recent session," Senator Penrose said, "a larger amount of money than ever before in the history of the country. It is misleading to state that the additional amount has been required for 'preparedness' alone."

Canada Threatened Reprisals.

It was admitted later in the day at the state department that Sir Joseph Pope, Canadian cabinet minister, in bringing diplomatic pressure to defeat the Chamberlain amendment, threatened reprisals against Atlantic coast fisheries if congress legislated to bar Pacific halibut and salmon from the United States.

How serious the state department took the threats of retaliation is not known. It is known that many officials believe the fisheries treaty between the two governments would prevent any retaliatory measures that would disturb the status quo on the Atlantic. At the same time Secretary Lansing opposed the Chamberlain amendment and this opposition by the state department was held today to be responsible for its defeat.

Lansing Flouts Lobby Charge.

Secretary of State Lansing today dissembled from the view expressed during the congressional debate that any charge of "lobbying" could be against the activities of Sir Joseph Pope and the Canadian minister of fisheries, who came to Washington to prevent the threatened fisheries reprisals.

There was nothing improper, Mr. Lansing held, in any efforts a cabinet minister of one country should make, through diplomatic channels, to prevent the passage of inimical legislation.

CHANGES INCOME TAX PLAN.

Conference Committee Extends $4,000 Exemption to All "Heads of Families."

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—Members of the conference committee on the revenue bill today pointed out an important change in the income tax section as finally approved, extending the $4,000 exemption, instead of the $3,000 one, to "heads of families," whether married or not, replacing the provision of the old law which gave the larger exemption only to "married persons."

Big Outlay in Sight.

"But still more startling is the contemplation of the contracts authorized to switch the government is pledged in addition to the actual appropriations."

The reckless extravagance carried on with a disregard of consequences which is simply appalling, has characterized the course of the majority party during the session of congress just closed. Moreover, there has been an utter failure to recognize the needs of the country when we come to face the crisis which will be brought on before the close of the year in Europe."

The largest appropriation for one session of congress ever made before was for the fiscal year 1915, amounting to $1,118,118,138. It is admitted that

PROBES CHARGE CANADIAN LOBBY BEAT FISH BILL

Senate Orders Inquiry on Influence Against Measure to Prevent Imports.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—(Special.)—The senate today instructed its lobby committee to investigate charges made by Senator Chamberlain that a commission of Canadian officials had come to Washington to prevent the adoption of legislation sought by him to prevent the importation of Pacific ocean halibut and salmon.

The senator made the charge during the early morning hours, and when the senate reconvened at 8:30 Senator Curtis of Kansas offered a resolution directing an investigation. After some debate it was adopted.

THIS PHYSICIAN EXAMINED 900; ENTERS PROTEST

Dr. C. Bertschinger Criticizes School Requirement in Letter to "The Tribune."

PROPOSES ANOTHER PLAN.

A letter was received by THE TRIBUNE last night from Dr. C. Bertschinger, 3010 North Robey street, presenting "the practitioner's view" of the medical inspection system devised by the health department for the public school opening.

In the course of the letter, which was indorsed by a group of nine other physicians of the northwest side, Dr. Bertschinger says:

"Kindly let the busy practitioner speak, who by official proclamation was summoned to do this service free of charge—a proceeding which I followed to the letter. As a consequence about 900 children were provided with certificates from my office within three days—free of charge."

Examination Worth Little.
"It goes without saying that in such numbers only a most superficial inspection and questioning could be accomplished and that such an examination is nothing short of futile. How poorly the general plan was managed was shown by the fact that not until the second day after the opening of schools by the city and that 90 per cent of the certificates had to be either written by ourselves or signed on blanks that we ordered from our own printers in order to be able to cope with the situation."

Suggests Better Plan.
"From no other profession does the city expect free service. Unions get their demands. Attorneys to the employment of the city on any special case get so much per diem for their services. This whole inspection should have been done by calling for volunteers at the specified rate per hour and should have been conducted in school with the assistance of the teachers to expedite the procedure. It would then have accomplished what it could not accomplish under the circumstances, and it would not have played havoc with the dignity of our profession which would not have put any physician in a false position, kalamining, etc., in many offices as the presence of a wild crowd of children will do."

Objects to Criticism.
"I feel the press in general has not dealt fairly with the medical profession, which consists of many hard working men often underpaid, especially in the poorer districts, where the greatest number of children exists. The proceeding adopted by the school board and commissioner of health amounts to nothing less than conscription—a condition which is not even advocated at present for our national defense and which is not even attempted in the despotic European monarchies without due enactment of law."

GIRL WRITES SHE IS SAFE.
Mother Who Feared White Slavers Got Her Daughter Receives Postcard.

The fears of her mother that 17 year old Lorine Iverson had been lured from home by a gang of white slavers in Michigan were somewhat allayed yesterday when a postcard signed by the girl arrived at the Iverson home at 1832 North Albany avenue. Miss Iverson wrote she is in good hands and isn't coming home. The hurried postmark showed that the card came from Missouri, but the name of the town was undecipherable. She disappeared on Wednesday, after a quarrel with her mother, who objected to her going out evenings.

TRUSTEES FLEE BEFORE WOMEN

Thirty-fifth Warders Protest Use of Portable Schoolhouses.

THE "IN-BAD" CLUB.

Half a hundred hellacious women, led by Mrs. David Clark of 928 North Karlov avenue, debouched from the Thirty-fifth ward yesterday and swept down upon the offices of the board of education to find out why their children must attend school in portable houses at Augusta street and Kostner and Kildare avenues.

They captured the meeting room of the board, but took no prisoners, for the committee on buildings and grounds gathered in another room. The women clamored for a victim, and Lewis E. Larson, secretary of the board, exposed himself. Ald. Conrad H. Janke of the Thirty-fifth and Mrs. Clark explained the situation to Mr. Larson and the forty-nine women warriors joined in the chorus.

The In-Bad Club.
Ald. Thomas J. Lynch, also of the Thirty-fifth and chair of the council committee on schools, fire, police, and civil service, was elected to the In-Bad club as a "bachelor and not a good citizen," and Ald. Robert M. Buck of the Thirty-fourth narrowly escaped election to the same organization because there was no time to count the votes. Sundry babies joined in the halting and the discussion also.

Dr. Otto F. Warning, member of the board, attempted a few remarks and fled in dismay. Angus Roy Shannon, counsel for the board, wandered into the meeting room to learn the cause of the disturbance and departed forthwith. So Mr. Larson was left to wave blue prints and make explanations when opportunities offered.

The Reason Why.
Mr. Larson explained the board had obtained from the council permission to purchase the entire block at the Keele-Corcoran-Thomas site, but later learned 104 feet of the 600 feet in the block would be too expensive. Then it was planned to purchase all the block except the 104 feet.

"Some of the councilmen said we had no right to do this," Mr. Larson explained. "Who?" clamored the women. "Well," the secretary said, "I recall that Ald. Buck was particularly vehement and accused us of acting in bad faith."

TAKES TRAFFIC POLICEMAN'S REVOLVER TO KILL HIMSELF.

Omaha Man Ends Life on Crowded
Corner After Slipping Weapon from Mounted Officer's Pocket.

The morning rush of traffic had just reached its height at Dearborn and Randolph streets yesterday when Mounted Policeman Sewell A. Bursby, sitting astride his horse, felt a tug at his hip pocket. The next instant there was a shot and Bursby whirled around to find a man falling to the pavement, a bullet wound in his head and the policeman's revolver slipping from his hand.

The man was dead before the crowd of curious men and hysterical women had fairly gathered. The body was taken to the Western Casket and Undertaking rooms, and letters addressed to "Arthur E. Hansen, Overland hotel, Omaha, Neb.," were taken from his pockets.

Some time later a telegram from Omaha announced that Otto Hansen left the Overland hotel in Omaha five days ago and came to Chicago. In this message there was no mention of the murder charge.

A sister, Mrs. C. A. Sogum of 1240 Penn avenue, Omaha, has been notified of Hansen's death.

Ouster Writ for Patton Sisters.
Misses Isabel and Anna Patton, 7386 Kenwood avenue, failed to obey the order of Judge Frederick A. Smith to vacate their former home by 6 o'clock Thursday night and yesterday a writ of assistance was granted to Attorney Albert C. Miller, representing the Swedish Home Benevolent association to oust the sisters by Monday.

THREATS OF COUNTRYMEN BRING FULL CONFESSION.

Felippo Saleto, Surrounded Before
Inquest by Enraged Relatives of Blain-Italian, Tells of Shooting.

Felippo Saleto, 804 Milton avenue, confessed the murder of Charles Davaroca yesterday when he was threatened by a group of angry Italians who gathered about a morgue at 718 Wells street, where the inquest was to be held.

Saleto was brought to the morgue by the police. When the friends of Davaroca saw him they raised threats against him in their native tongue. "Lock me up," cried Saleto, "I had rather go to prison than be murdered. They will murder me."

At the Chicago avenue station Saleto said he had been abused by Davaroca after a card game. He went to his home and returned with a revolver, with which he shot Davaroca in the back. Davaroca was a grocer.

And Flagman Dies on Job.
Harold Miller, flagman for Pullman cars, Milwaukee and St. Paul at the lower at Lake avenue, was found dead near the tracks.

ESCAPED SQUIRREL NIPS JANITOR WHO SEIZES HIM.

Pet Makes Its Escape from Mrs.
Louise Fritz and Gets Lost in Jackson Park.

A wild and savage squirrel kicked up a muss in Stony Island avenue yesterday after it escaped from the cage of its owner, Mrs. Louise Fritz, 6030 Stony Island avenue. William Perry, a janitor, of 6021 Harper avenue seized the snorting runaway and was bitten eighteen times in rapid succession. He released his hold.

Children fled and told the police a squirrel was endangering their lives. Mrs. Fritz told the police to go catch her pet.

Finally it was surrounded in Jackson park. So were a couple of hundred other squirrels. There was no use trying to pick out the right squirrel, so everybody went home.

Man's Body in River.
The body of a young man about 25 years old and 5 feet 11 inches tall was recovered from the river at West Thirty-fourth street yesterday. It had been in the water a week.

STATE TO DEMAND DEATH IN THE BOPP MURDER TRIAL.

Assistant State's Attorney's Questions to Jury Indicate He Will Ask Extreme Penalty.

Death on the gallows will be demanded by the state for Lloyd Bopp, 23 years old, charged with the murder of Motorcycle Policeman Herman Malow of Oak Park, June 14. This was indicated by Assistant State's Attorney James C. O'Brien's questions to candidates for jury service when Bopp was placed on trial before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Criminal court yesterday.

Policemen Malow and Thure Lindhe chased an automobile, containing Bopp, Frank McErlend, Alfred Micheli, Grace Lytle, and another woman at 2 o'clock in the morning. They overtook it at Cuyler avenue and Washington boulevard. There Malow was shot and killed and his partner wounded. The automobile had been stolen from Lake Shore drive and Division street.

DENIES MISSING BANKER LAVISHED JEWELS ON HER.

Miss Bessie Motor, Former Cashier of John A. Krazwoszewski, Contradicts Current Stories.

Miss Bessie Motor of 4333 South Marshfield avenue, once employed as cashier by John A. Krazwoszewski, whose private bank at 1620 West Eighteenth street was wrecked by his speculations, denied yesterday that the banker showered presents of jewels and gowns upon her. "He didn't even pay me a good salary," she said.

Krazwoszewski, who was arrested in Grand Rapids on Thursday, will be brought back to Chicago Monday. Joseph Baron of 2312 West Twenty-first street informed Vincent Ponio, attorney for the depositors, that two months ago he had intrusted $54,750 to the banker to be sent to Europe. He was given a receipt numbered 28. Two days ago he received a letter telling him the money had not arrived.

Fighting Fatigue

Fatigue is the greatest enemy you have to face in business life today

"The struggle of business and city life," says Dr. Brady, "is a constant 'Kinetic Drive.' It is a long drawn-out fight against Fatigue." You dare not rest for fear of being left behind. But gradually Fatigue slows down your pace. Your energy is gone.

The man in the store or office, or the salesman who goes from place to place, is under a constant "Drive." No matter how weary he is, he must always be in good humor and high spirits.

The man at the lathe, forge or bench, working all day on factory floors, is more fatigued by standing on the floors than by the work he does. His back aches at night from the steady strain on his spine during the day.

The superintendent who walks miles daily with nail-studded hard leather heels on unyielding factory floors, wastes his energy and vitality.

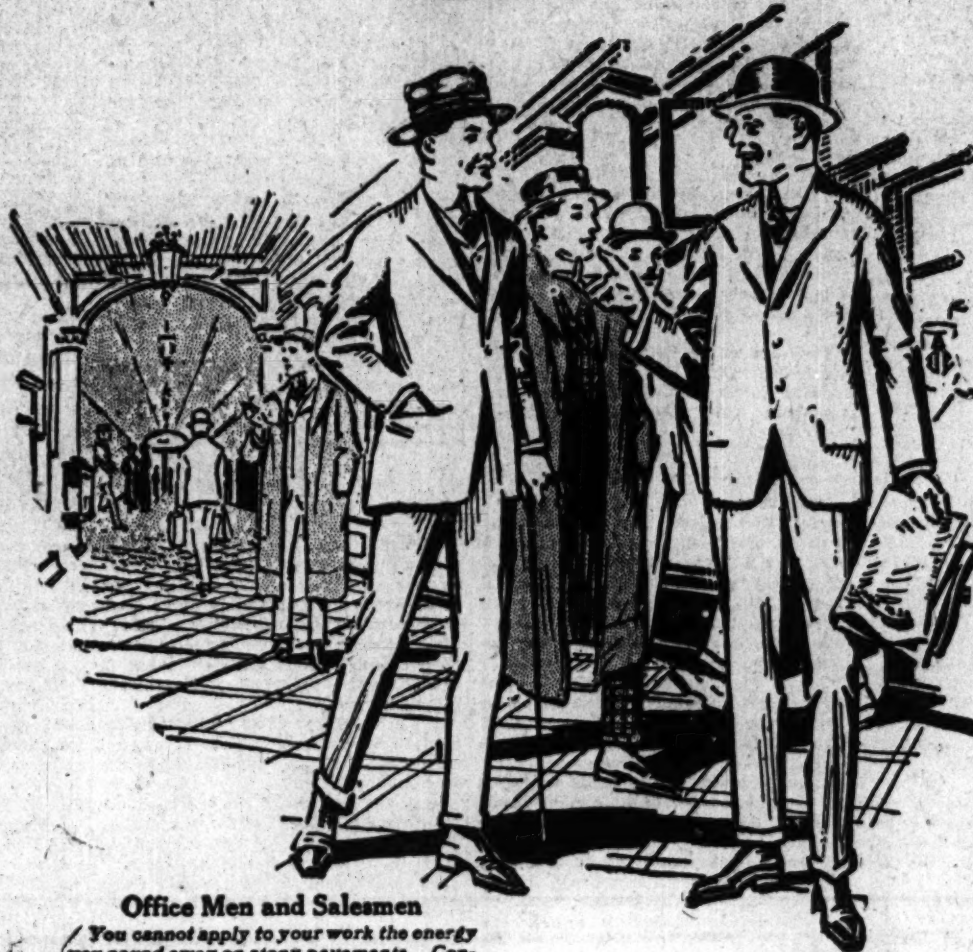

"The average man," says Harrington Emerson, the well-known efficiency engineer, "is only 25 per cent efficient, because he does not conserve his energy."

A great cause for Fatigue

One of the greatest causes of Fatigue, and loss of energy nowadays, is hard city streets and hardwood floors.

The energy that you pound away on stony pavements you cannot apply to your work. It is wasted power, and wasted power is not paid for.

You could play tennis all day on a hard clay court, and at night, have only the tired feeling that comes from wholesome exercise. But a few hours on hard streets and floors exhaust you.

Average man only 25% efficient because he does not conserve his energy

The reason is plain. When you play tennis you wear shoes with rubber heels and soles. These absorb the shocks which would otherwise jar your spinal column, and tire your nerves.

To play tennis on hard leather heels would soon exhaust you. Yet, with every step you take with hard heels on hard floors and pavements, you subject your nerves to jolts and jars more fatiguing than you would get from courts of clay.

Take the strain off your spine

Equip yourself for your work as you would for anything else.

In every trade and profession, intelligent workers are now saving their energy by wearing O'Sullivan's Heels of New Live Rubber.

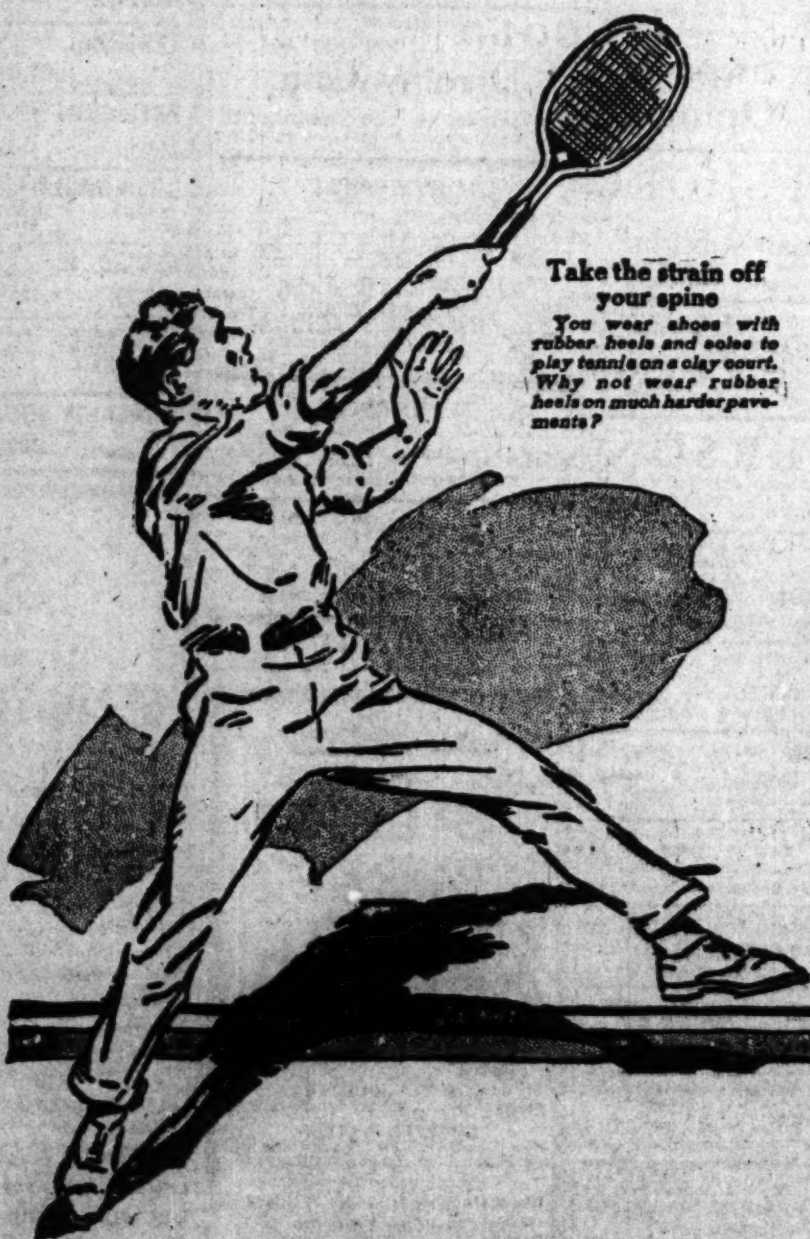

One out of every four people in every walk of life, in the most nerve racking city in the world, wears O'Sullivan's Heels. These little Shock Absorbers save their energy for their work.

Save your energy. Achieve success. Wear O'Sullivan's Heels of New Live Rubber. Remember that the man who "gets there" is the man with power to spare.

When you buy your new shoes, buy them O'Sullivanized. Up-to-date shoe dealers now sell latest style shoes with O'Sullivan's Heels already attached.

Insist on O'Sullivanized shoes—the new live rubber heels give the greatest wear with the greatest resiliency. At any shoe dealer or shoe maker; in black, white or tan; for men, women and children; 50c attached.

JOLIET LETTER OF MRS. BARNES BARES JEALOUSY

Wife Had Police Aid in Investigating Husband's Girl Friends.

INDICTMENT IS RETURNED.

Mrs. Iva Barnes' jealousy of her husband, whom she shot to death in Washington park, was bared yesterday through the aid of former Chief of Police Martin Murphy of Joliet.

Murphy gave out correspondence and facts relating to the visit of Mrs. Barnes to Joliet in 1913 in pursuit of evidence that her husband had been seen often in the company of two Joliet girls.

It was found that Mrs. Barnes and a woman went to Joliet on Dec. 5, 1913, and registered at the Monroe hotel.

"She asked me where she could find a detective," said Leonard Norgan, the detective with Monroe hotel. "I referred her to Chief Murphy."

Mrs. Barnes went to Chief Murphy and found Barnes had been paying polite attention to Miss Alma Anderson, a buyer in the L. F. Beach company's store. She learned also there was still another girl. She remained until evening, when she went to Hobbs' café, where she saw Miss Anderson and the other girl.

Her Letter Quoted.

Upon her return to Chicago she wrote to Chief Murphy as follows:

After leaving you we went directly to Hobbs' café and there to my amazement we saw the two together. Sorry you were not there to see as they yourself. I was deeply hurt and pale and I had a very unpleasant look given me. It was really laughable, for I think the one (Miss Anderson) is wondering to herself who I am. I have spoken for her in the store since then.

Mrs. L. A. Barnes

"Only a Business Friend."

Miss Anderson was willing to talk of her acquaintance with Barnes. She is buyer in the Beach store and regarded him an important official.

"Mr. Barnes had been coming to our store for some time," said Miss Anderson. "He was highly respected, and I purchased considerably of him. He visited Joliet twice a year."

"I have known the buyer in his line. It was not unusual that I should take lunch with him. I found him always pleasant and always a cultured gentleman. There was nothing in his conduct that would give me the impression that he was a criminal."

Mrs. Barnes, according to former Chief Murphy, said she had found a number of letters from Miss Anderson to her husband, and she was reasonably decided to make inquiries in Joliet.

Indicted for Murder.

Grand jury action was taken yesterday against Mrs. Barnes after she had made a new confession of the shooting of her husband. An indictment for murder in the second degree, which will be presented in court on Monday.

Mrs. Barnes repudiated the alleged confession she made on the morning after her husband was shot to death. In a new affidavit made public by the grand jury, Attorney Hynes said she never had admitted shooting her husband, but that it was an accident.

Discuss Woman Prosecutor.

Women entered the legal arena with a vim yesterday to discuss the suggested appointment of a woman lawyer to prosecute the case of the woman charged with the murder of Elizabeth L. Hoffman, secretary of the Woman's Bar association, who has made a record for defending unfortunate girls in the Morals court. She announced she would prepare petitions for for signatures toward placing a woman in each of the outlying police stations, the state's attorney's office, and every public office where a man is.

"My experience in the Public Defender League for Girls has shown me the need for women—both defenders and prosecutors in the courts," she said.

There is a sad want un supplied in the Morals court. A good woman is needed to get after the men there, as they are not punished enough. When a man prosecutes a man in this court he is very lenient.

Where Women Are Needed.

"A woman could defend the city boys in the boys' court, and be too good for them. A woman in the boys' court would improve things. Women generally are not so lenient as men and the boys are having it too easy for their own good. The lenient ones should be deprived of

"While I should refuse absolutely to prosecute Mrs. Barnes, I would not hesitate a moment to defend her. I should defend my neighbor in the defense of my woman, were to prosecute her at this time. I do not care to be in the rôle of woman against woman. I should prefer man to do the prosecuting until a proper case is brought against her, and then I would be adjusted to her position and not practice upon Mrs. Barnes first."

Miss Hart Wants Job.

This was not the sentiment of Miss Pearl M. Hart, an adult probation officer, who said that she would like to see Miss Hart is anxious to be appointed to prosecute Mrs. Barnes. A number of clubwomen and social workers, including Mrs. Gertrude C. Howe, Brainerd, Mrs. Catharine Waugh McColloch, Mrs. Leopora C. Meder, and Mrs. Minnie Martin, have formed themselves into a committee to see that Attorney General James H. Payne for the purpose of having her appointed to the place.

No woman can be successfully conated when man is prosecuting her, Miss Hart said, "and I am willing to stand for the state in the Barnes prosecution. I would give up my work as probation officer to do it."
